PROJECT VICTORY HOTEL ALTERATIONS

ARCHITECT BUTCHER BROWN

Architects provided Tempo Constructions with a very challenging range of different materials to work with and the builder rose to the challenge with all work being well executed. The historic nature of this building proved to be very difficult and Tempo Constructions had to deal with various issues including old cellars, the building being out of plumb and a myriad of services. Even though the front bar remained operational, there were no accidents or incidents with patrons. A stand out feature noted by the judges, was the recycling and use of recycled materials.
