Life just so sweet for Leigh

THERE is something extra special about Leigh McClusky's beautiful eight-week old twins Jock and Tansy.

The adorable twosome were conceived after months of emotionally-draining IVF.

The former Today Tonight host and her husband, Simon Haigh, of chocolate fame, already had son Murdoch, 5, and daughter Sigourney, 21 months, but decided they wanted to add to their brood.

"We had been trying for a while and I have to say all credit to (fertility clinic) Repromed, and particularly the team led by Dr Christine Kirby," Leigh said. "We have been blessed to have one of the best IVF units in Australia, if not the world."

"It's an emotionally-gruelling process to go through and we could not have been in better hands."

And if life is not busy enough with four little ones under six, Leigh, 48, revealed she was keen to get back to the workforce in a couple of months. She hosted TT for 12 years before handing the reins over to Rosanna Mangiarelli, and admitted it was time for a change.

"If I look back now I was getting stale doing Today Tonight," she said.

"Rosanna is doing a sensational job, and that is something I would not go back to. It was just time for a change but it was a wonderful experience."

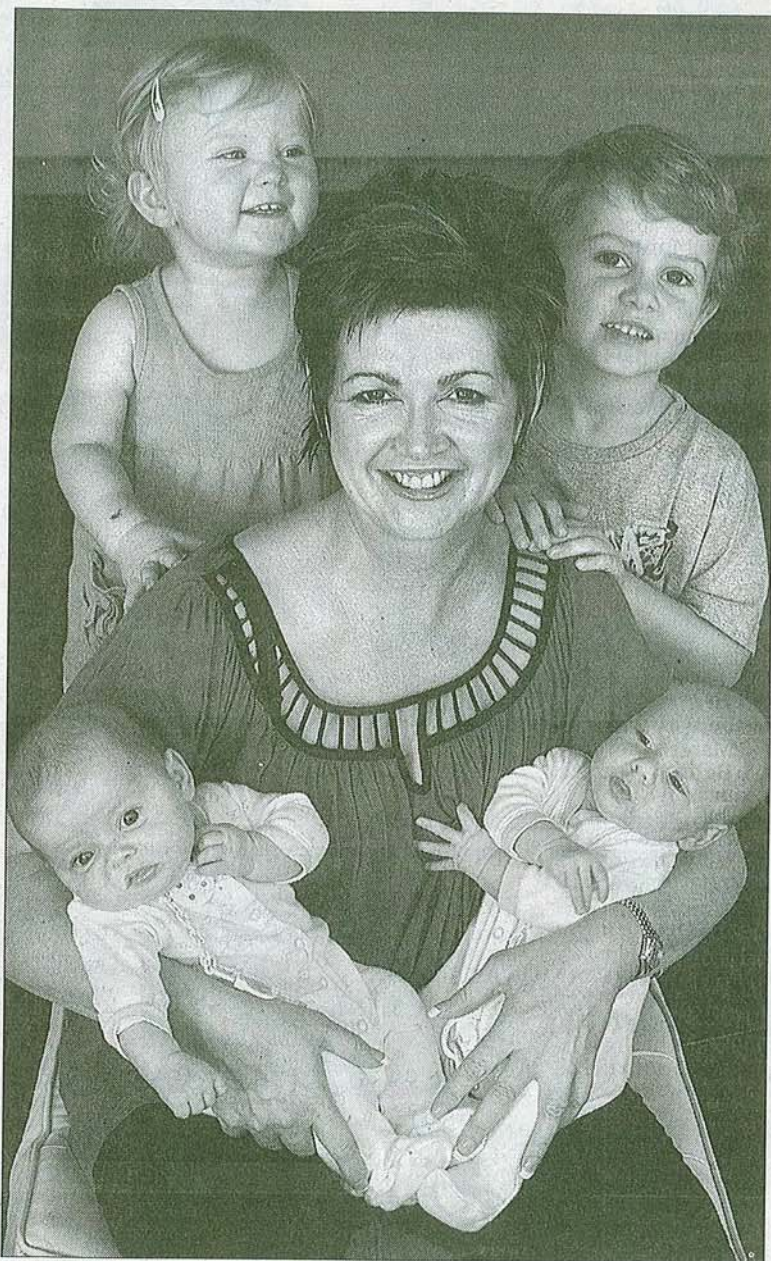

"I've been home for six months and I'd love to get back and do something in TV. I'm keen to look for something but that's not to say I don't adore my kids."

And the two new additions are already showing their little personalities.

"Jock is a very serious and considered young man, whereas Tansy is pretty laid-back," said Leigh, who has occasional help from a nanny.

"Having them is just beyond my wildest dreams. But I don't think there will be any more."

As well as juggling four kids, Leigh and Simon are overseeing major renovations to their Springfield home. They've enlisted the services of Paul Tokareff from Tempo and Sally Young from Nelson Architects.
